NEWS RELEASE

Lee Enterprises sells DeKalb operations to Shaw Newspapers

DeKALB, Ill. (Dec. 4, 2007) — Lee Enterprises (NYSE: LEE) has sold the Daily Chronicle and affiliated publications to Shaw Newspapers, based in Dixon, Ill.

Shaw Newspapers is a 156-year-old media company with newspapers, niche publications and online sites in Dixon, Sterling, Princeton, Morris, Geneva and Crystal Lake, Ill., and in Newton and Creston, Iowa.

Tom Shaw, president and chief executive officer of Shaw Newspapers, said his company has had a long-standing interest in the DeKalb daily. “We have courted them for more than a decade,” he said. “We are so pleased today to be welcoming DeKalb to our family of dynamic, community based, multi-media enterprises.”

He said the DeKalb operation will become part of Shaw Suburban Media, headquartered in Crystal Lake. That group includes two other daily newspapers, Northwest Herald in Crystal Lake and Kane County Chronicle in Geneva; two weekly groups, Lake County Journals and Weekly Journals; a bilingual weekly, a monthly business journal and several online sites.

John Pfeifer, publisher of the Daily Chronicle since September 2006, has been appointed publisher of Chronicle News Group, which will include operations in DeKalb and Geneva.

“The addition of Northern Illinois Publishing is a terrific addition to Shaw Newspapers and Shaw Suburban Media,” said John Rung, chief operating officer of Shaw Suburban Media and publisher of the Northwest Herald. “In the greater Chicago area, we will now have a significant footprint in Lake, McHenry, Kane and DeKalb counties.”

Lee Enterprises acquired the Daily Chronicle as part of its purchase of Pulitzer Inc. in 2005.

Mary Junck, Lee chairman and chief executive officer, said: “While we regret having to say goodbye to colleagues, we recognize that the Daily Chronicle and its employees will benefit from becoming part of a strong media company focused on the region, which in turn will ultimately benefit readers, online users and advertisers.”

Lee Enterprises is a premier publisher of local news, information and advertising in primarily midsize markets, with 50 other daily newspapers and a joint interest in five more, rapidly growing online sites and more than 300 weekly newspapers and specialty publications in 23 states. Lee’s newspapers have circulation of 1.6 million daily and 1.9 million Sunday, reaching more than four million readers daily.
